Select the Proper Brush

Understanding the parts of the brush, hair types and handle variations will simplify the selection process. Proper brush care and storage will keep them performing like new.

Handles: They can be constructed with wood or plastic/acrylic and come in various lengths. Plastic and acrylic handles won't crack or peel if left in water.

Long/Easel - Best use with acrylic and oil painting on an easel. Allows the artist to step back for better perspective.

Standard - Most common and used for painting close to artwork.

Short - Ideal for miniature painting and young children.

Ferrule: Can be constructed with Brass (best), aluminum (good), and plastic (economy).

Tip: Releases the color and comes in a variety of shapes.

Size: This number may reflect an actual size such as 1/4", 1/2", 1", etc. while others are assigned numbers like 12, representing 12mm. A half inch flat is roughly the equivalent of a 12mm flat. An exception to this sizing would be fan brushes, because of their unique shape.

Type	Hair	Best Use	Also Used With
	Soft Natural Squirrel, Sable, Sabeline, Camel, Goat, Pony	Watercolor, Ink, Ceramic Finishes	Gouache, Craft Acrylics, Tempera
	Bristle Natural or Synthetic Boar, Hog	Oil, Acrylic, Adhesives, Alkyds	Tempera
	Synthetic Gold Taklon	Acrylic, Gouache	Watercolor, Tempera, Ink
	Synthetic White Nylon (Firmer than Gold Taklon)	Acrylic	Oil, Fabric Paint

Parts of the Brush

Brush Care & Storage

- Give brushes a "drink" to condition the hair prior to use. Use the appropriate media (water or solvent) and work it into the bristles so paint is less likely to dry in the center and build up over time.
- Wood handle brushes should always be dried flat or hanging down to prevent water from soaking into handle.
- Acrylic brushes should be dried flat, but can be stored upright if most of the water has dried from the hairs.
- When storing natural hair brushes for the summer or long periods, dip the brushes in liquid hand soap, wipe the excess, reshape the head, and allow the brush to dry. This will seal the hairs, eliminate mites from getting to the brush and ensure the brush head keeps its shape.
- Try not to soak handles. Water levels should only be to the crimping on the ferrule. Wetting wood handles can cause cracking and loosening of the ferrules. Dry handles after every cleaning.
- Clean brushes immediately after painting. Do not let any paint sit or dry in the hairs.
- Be gentle when using cake paints. Coarse scrubbing can permanently damage the hairs.
- For natural hair brushes, occasionally use brush conditioner to help keep hairs from drying out and breaking.

Cleaning Brushes

Water-based media: Rinse the brush several times in clean water. Use a good brush cleaner or shampoo to lather up the brush and swirl it around in the palm of your hand, then rinse; continue until all of the rinse water is colorless and all of the cleaner is removed.

Other media: Rinse the brush in solvent until all of the color is removed. Wipe the brush back and forth on paper towel or rags and work the solvent throughout the brush to remove all color.

Artists are using them with plaster, clay, and more. Cleanup is a breeze. The silicone is easy to wipe clean and is solvent resistant. Cleanup in most cases can be done with mild soap and water. Dried paint can be peeled off the silicone surface. Catalyst blades can even be separated from their wood handles for cleaning and easily replaced when dry. Helpful Tips

About Illustration Board

When selecting illustration board, it is important to choose the right surface for the mediums and techniques you are planning to use. Hot press boards have a moderately smooth surface that captures finely detailed imagery and performs superbly with wet mediums and techniques without feathering. Cold press boards have a more aggressive, medium toothed surface that lends itself well to dry mediums.

Jack Richeson™ Press Blankets

The use of 3 press blankets, a cushion, a pusher and a catcher is recommended when printmaking to lessen the strain on the upper roll shaft of your press. The catcher blanket is placed directly on top of your damp printing paper to catch the sizing from the paper, the cushion blanket on top of the catcher, and the pusher on the very top. The catcher blanket requires regular washing so that it doesn't become stiff from the paper's sizing residue. We offer quality, dense wool felt available in white or gray. White blankets have more density with more fiber per blanket.

Mayco® Stroke & Coat® Swatches

Speckled Set

Mayco® Stroke & Coat®

Cone 06-10

Known as "The Wonderglaze", Stroke & Coat® can be applied to wet clay, or bisqueware, fired from Cone 06 to Cone 10. Simply brush one coat to create a translucent finish or apply up to 3 coats for opaque coverage. When used for a majolica technique, the glaze will not move nor blend with the colors beneath. Stroke & Coats® can be intermixed to create custom shades and fires to a glossy finish. From jar to fired finish, the color stays true so your students will know exactly what their finished piece will look like during the creative process. AP non-toxic, lead free and food safe. Individual jars are 1 Pint (473ml). Freeze/Thaw stable.

Choosing and Purchasing an Electric Kiln

A ceramic or glass kiln can be a major capital expenditure; however, with careful selection, placement, maintenance and care, it can be a piece of equipment that will last for many years.

Kiln Specifications Worksheet - Required for all Kiln Purchases

It's important that we receive the completed worksheet before your kiln is shipped in order to save you time and trouble upon receipt. We recommend that you meet with your electrician or building specifications authority prior to completing the worksheet to ensure that the kiln you are choosing is compatible with your art room's limitations.

Important Considerations

Before buying a kiln, several very important factors must be considered including: Kiln Location; Electrical Supply; Firing Capacity; Ventilation; Controller Type; Warranty and Accessories.

Kiln Location

Due to the high temperature and the emissions the kiln may give off, the best location is a dedicated, low traffic, kiln room with a locking door, exterior wall for easy ventilation, preferably near the art room for convenience of transporting ware.

Other things to consider with the location of your kiln:

- Dry, well-ventilated area.
- At least 18" of space around kiln.
- Be sure to order a kiln you can fit through all doors!
- Non-combustible floor such as concrete or ceramic tile.
- Ceiling clearance enough for kiln to be opened.
- Sprinkler system that is not activated by elevated kiln room temperatures.

Electrical Requirements

The kiln should be supplied by a dedicated breaker. Consult your electrician to make sure you have availability in your breaker box to handle the recommended breaker for your kiln. You will need to know the voltage and phase of the power supply available in the kiln room. Voltage will be either 208V or 240V (220V is a generic term and not a specific voltage). The supply will be either 1 phase or 3 phase. Residential supply is almost always 240V 1 phase and commercial supply can be any combination. Have your electrician test the supply to be certain. Some kiln models may require an electrician to direct wire the kiln.

What Size to Buy

Besides determining the physical placement for the kiln and the electrical requirements, getting the kiln that serves your needs is vital.

Ask yourself the following: What are you firing? How big is the work? How often will you be firing a load? Will your needs/enrollment grow and can your kiln keep up? To what temperature are you firing? The closer you fire a kiln to its maximum temperature, the shorter the life of the elements and relays. Are you able physically to reach down in a kiln to load and unload?

Often, a shorter wider kiln is easier to work with. Sometimes though, you need a deep kiln for tall pieces. Front loaders are more expensive but some people find them easier to load. Buy for the future. Your kiln, with care and maintenance, can last many years.

Venting Your Kiln

When clay fires, it gives off fumes due to the burning of organic materials in the clay body. Formaldehyde, sulfur dioxide and even carbon monoxide are released. A vent is a must and is often required by building codes.

Your Controller...Kiln Sitter or Computerized?

- Kiln Sitter controlled kilns are a little less expensive but do not offer the features and convenience desired by most teachers.
- Electronic (digital) controllers allow freedom in firing. Simply determine the cone to be fired to, the speed of the firing, and it does the rest. It is easily programmed, holds your program for repeat firings, and if it has a ramp/hold feature, allows you to even fuse and slump glass!

Warranty

What is covered and for how long? Does the manufacturer have a good reputation and is it responsive to your questions/problems? Are parts (elements and relays) readily available?

Optional Accessory Considerations

1. Kiln furniture (posts and shelves) that specifically fit your kiln model.
2. A Kiln stand; does the kiln come already with a stand? Does the stand need a caster? Is the vent mounted on it?
3. A Lid Lifter: a mechanical arm that helps both wide and heavy lids open and shut easier.
4. Test cones to place on the shelves to determine firing efficiency.
5. Glaze stilts to stilt glazed pot bottoms.
6. Kiln wash to keep glaze from sticking to your shelves.
7. Tile or plate setters for flat work.

Before Using Your Kiln

Make sure to read each page of your owner's manual in detail before you install or operate the kiln. Warranties do not cover damage caused by failure to follow instructions. We suggest you read the manual twice. The first time read it straight through before you plug in your kiln. The second time use it as a guide as you set the kiln up and for the initial firing.

Each of the kiln manufacturers we represent offers more kilns than we can show in our catalog. Contact your local sales representative for assistance on finding additional models. After your purchase, our customer care department would be happy to assist you with any questions, concerns or replacement parts for your new kiln. We want your ceramics experience to be creative and enjoyable!

Vent-A-Kiln System

Heat rises, so the best way to eliminate heat, fumes and odors from firing kilns is to capture emissions at their source and exhaust them safely outside. Vent-A-Kiln is a variable-height overhead-mounted ventilation system that removes hazardous emissions as they rise to keep your working environment safe and comfortable.

Paragon Dragon Kiln

The Dragon is an industrial furnace designed for pottery and ceramic studios. And considering its features, it is surprisingly affordable. Potters who struggle with top-loading kilns will enjoy the Dragon. The door swings open wide on a heavy 3/4" steel rod with sealed bearings. Two spring-loaded latches press the door tightly closed. The Dragon exudes power. Its 16,500 watts heat the 24" wide, 24" deep, 27" high interior to Cone 10 with ample power to spare. This results in long element life, because the elements do not "struggle" to reach high temperatures. Dropped, recessed grooves seat industrial-gauge elements for long life. The elements are "tuned", which means hotter elements are placed in areas of the firing chamber that need more heat. This results in superior heat distribution.

Paragon Iguana Kiln

The Iguana is powered with reliable extra-heavy-duty elements. This results in long element life because the elements do not "struggle" to reach high temperatures. 10,800 watts heat the 18" wide, 18" deep, 22-1/2" high interior to a full Cone 10. Industrial-gauge elements are seated and protected in dropped, recessed firebrick grooves. The elements are easy to replace, because you can comfortably reach into the kiln. Potters and ceramists who struggle with top-loading kilns will enjoy the Iguana. The door swings open wide on a heavy 1/2" steel rod with sealed bearings. A spring-loaded latch presses the door tightly closed. A recessed firebrick lip around the door seals in heat.

KILNS

PLEASE READ BEFORE SELECTING:

When planning to purchase a kiln, keep in mind the following basic, essential elements:

- Electrical supply
- Accessories
- Needs
- Ventilation
- Firing capacity

The power supply in your facility will determine the voltage and phase requirements of the kiln. Contact your custodian or local electric company for this information. For example, if your building is powered by 208 volts and single-phase electricity, your kiln should have the same power specifications. Your kiln must be either direct-wired or plugged into a compatibly wired circuit. The circuit must never be used by other appliances while the kiln is firing.

Important Considerations:

1. If you expect to fire often, purchase the largest kiln possible within your space and electrical limitations.
2. The kiln location must allow for a minimum of 18 inches on all sides. Local authorities can provide you with information regarding protective walls and flooring or ventilation requirements.
3. Due to the many different types of materials which may be fired in all kilns, the firing area must be properly ventilated.
4. Preview the various clays and glazes you plan to use to determine the firing range desired. Most kilns fire to cone 10 which is adequate for a wide range of ceramic techniques.
5. Accessories are essential to every kiln purchase. Order any options at the time of your kiln purchase to save on shipping costs.

In order to use your kiln you MUST order kiln furniture (shelves and posts), peep hole plugs, kiln wash, heat-resistant gloves, vent system, cones and—of course—clays and glazes.

FILL OUT THIS KILN SPECIFICATIONS WORKSHEET AND SEND IT TO US ALONG WITH YOUR KILN ORDER.

Returns resulting from wrong or insufficient information will be subject to freight anvouble upon receipt. Thank you for your cooperation.

NOTICE: Automatic Controllers allow you to be away from the kiln during firing, however we recommend that you monitor the firing periodically and that you ALWAYS BE PRESENT NEAR THE END OF THE FIRING THROUGH SHUTDOWN.

Read each page of your manual in detail before you install or operate the kiln. Warranty does not cover damage caused by failure to follow instructions. We suggest you read the manual twice. The first time read it straight through before you plug in your kiln. The second time use it as a guide as you set the kiln up and fire it.

Paragon Bluebird Kiln

The ceramic fiber BlueBird kiln safely anneals even large glass beads. Enjoy a full 20" of width with the 2" x 10" doors on the standard model. The XL kiln has a 10" x 4" door and a 10" x 4-1/4" door. The 10" x 4" short door has a 1/2" gap so the door remains closed even with bead mandrels in the kiln. The bottom of the 10" x 4-1/4" tall door, in the closed position, is flush against the kiln floor. The elements for both are embedded in the ceramic fiber roof to reduce dust. Knobs stay cool to the touch. Rare-earth magnets hold the doors open when needed. The built-in base stays cool even during extended hold times. Comes with mar-proof rubber feet.

Over-The-Door Drying Rack

We realize that in many classrooms extra space is hard to come by so we've designed a drying rack that doesn't take up any table or floor space. The durable, heavy-gauge rack has twenty 12" x 18" shelves supported by a bottom ledge and rubber bumpers on both front corners. Rubber-backed protective shields keep the door from getting marred. Two support bars hold the racks up and out of the way while filling, and the racks tilt slightly back to keep artwork from falling out. When not in use, the shelves can be tilted up and secured vertically, leaving ample room for passage in and out of the doorway. The bottom rack can be set as low as 34" from the floor or as high as 56" from the floor with 5 additional settings in between.

Jack Richeson Lyptus Wood Dulce Easel

The sliding mast moves independently of the painting tray, offering artists a greater variety of settings in which to work. By extending the mast to its highest point and leaving the painting tray in its lowest setting, artists are able to work on very large canvases. Alternately, by moving the mast to its lowest setting, especially where ceiling height is a concern, artists can work both sitting and standing allowing for great versatility. With its H-frame construction and quad base, this easel offers great stability for working seated or standing. A slide and lock system adjusts the height.

HEALTH & SAFETY INFORMATION

Consider the user when selecting any art materials. If they will be used in early learning or grade school classes (K-6), or used by handicapped persons who may be unable to read or understand safety labeling, we recommend that you purchase materials which are certified non-toxic products. Selection of products with these seals will provide you with safe materials for even the most sensitive group.

Other products which carry the Cautionary Label seal, and appropriate cautions for safe use, can safely be used by those persons who are able to read, understand and follow suggested safety precautions for handling those materials. Expressing true creativity frequently requires art materials that cannot be made in a non-hazardous form. Use of such products in a supervised or controlled environment will help ensure personal safety.

Government regulations dictate that items which may pose a choking hazard to young children must be properly labeled. We have added this icon  and warning on many product listings within this catalog, with a full explanation on page 3.

AP (NON-TOXIC)

Products bearing the AP Approved Product Seal of The Art & Creative Materials Institute, Inc. PMA AND WIMA CERTIFICATION SEALS

Products that carry this statement are in agreement with the labeling of the Hazardous Art Materials Act. If after a toxicological review the product is found to be non-toxic, then no special precautions need to be included on the label. However, if after a toxicological review the product is found to carry certain chronic health hazards, the information on the label must warn the consumer of those hazards.

NOTE ON SAFE USE AND SDS

Material Safety Data Sheets (SDS) are an important source of product safety information, covering safe handling, first-aid measures, waste disposal, and methods of extinguishing fires if the product is flammable. Workplaces, including schools in some states, may require SDSs under the right to know laws and will need to maintain a file at place of use and storage.

Some products, such as brushes or an easel, due to their nature, manufacture, or ingredients, do not typically contain toxic materials and therefore do not require an SDS.

If you experience an adverse reaction to a product, you should first contact your local poison control center or hospital. They are trained to handle emergency situations and have complete records of almost every art material available. Have the product on hand so you can provide information quickly and accurately. After the immediate danger is over, contact the supplier of the material.

Sax currently maintains a file of over 2,500 SDSs. SDS for any non-toxic product will be provided upon request. We ask that your request be in writing, show product brand, description and the Sax catalog number. Direct your request to the attention of Customer Care. We will promptly send the SDS you need.
